Method Of Determining District Football Championship Announced

In order to clarify the question with regard to determining the District Championship in football Cameron School officials announce the following rule by which a district championship would be determined if Rosebud should defeat Cameron this Friay night and thereby throw the district into a three-way tie with Rosebud, Belton and Cameron having lost one game each.

The rule is as follows: "A winner of district games, ending in a tie score, will be decided by penetrations and first downs. If a district game ends in a tie score, tie in penetrations, and a tie in first downs, the game will be considered as ½ game won and ½ game lost. If two or more teams are tied on a percentage basis for the district championship, co-champions will be declared and a flip of the coin will decide the team to enter bi-district play; provided however, that, should two teams tie for the district championship and one of these teams has defeated the other, co champions will still be declared, but the team that is the winner over the other will represent the district in bi-district play."

However, the Yoemen are determined that there shall be no three-way tie this year.

Milam County Peanut Farmers Will Vote In A Referendum December 15

Milam County peanut farmers will vote in a referendum on Tuesday, December 15, to determine whether marketing quotas will be held on the same day in all areas where peanuts are grown.

According to Paul C. Graves, Chairman of the County Production and Marketing Administration Committee, all peanut growers are eligible to vote in the referendum who shared in 1953-crop peanuts produced on a farm with a picked or threshed acreage of more than 1 acre.

At least two-thirds of all farmers voting must approve the quotas before they may be made effective. If marketing quotas are not approved, they will not be used for the 1954 peanut crop, and another vote will be held next year on quotas for the following three crops.

Explaining that the Secretary of Agriculture is directed by law to proclaim peanut marketing quotas, Mr. Graces stated that each year, between July 1 and December 1, the Secretary must proclaim the amount of the quota for the next crop. This quota is converted into a national acreage allotment which is apportioned to States and to farms according to provisions of law. All farm operators will be notified in writing of their farm acreage allotments prior to the referendum, Mr. Graves said.

The farm marketing quota is the quantity of peanuts produced on the farm acreage allotment. Peanuts produced on a farm where the 1954 peanut acreage is larger than the allotment will be subject to a marketing penalty.

If growers vote approval of quotas, price supports on 1954-crop peanuts will be available at 90 percent of parity to peanut farmers who harvest within their acreage allotments. Support for the 1955 and 1956 crops, under existing legislation, will be available at not less than a percent of parity between 75 and 90 percent which depends on the supply available at the beginning of the marketing year. If growers oppose peanut quotas, the level of support on the 1954 crop to co-operators will drop to 50 percent of parity.

The murder trial of Morris Spriggs came to an end Thursday. The jury found Spriggs Guilty of murder with malice and assessed his punishment at life in the State Penitentary.

The jury's verdict climaxed 4 days of sensational hearings which featured a constant running legal battle between County Attorney J. W. Miller and council for the defense, Jack Prescott. During the course of tht trial the jury was removed from the court room time-after-time while lawyers argued their motions and objections before District Judge O. D. Graham.

Final arguments of both attorneys were completed and the case turned over to the jury at 11:45 a.m.

Testimony began on the case at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The defendant pled not guilty, claiming self defense.

The first major witness called by the state was Isaah Woodard. Woodard testified that he picked up Spriggs' mother and drove her to Bubba Nelson's Place in Frog Town. He testified that he went in and told Spriggs that his mother wanted to see him, and that when he (Woodard) got back to his car, Spriggs was in the back seat.

Woodard told the court that Spriggs pulled a gun and told him to drive to the "Flat". He said that Spriggs made the statement that he was going to kill Taso Dorsey. Woodard testified that he drove Spriggs and his mother to the Flat and let Spriggs out about a block from the scene of the killing.

Woodard said that he then drove his car to a spot where he could see Spriggs and Dorsey. He said that Spriggs was standing in the street and Dorsey was sitting on the edge of a porch with a small child standing between his legs. He said he saw Spriggs fire at Dorsey four or five times.

Woodard was still on the stand being questioned by Jack Prescott, council for the defense, when Midget deadline time arrived.

The case of the State of Texas vs Morris Spriggs went into its third day today with the presentation of the defense.

Tuesday, the first witness for the state had been Deputy Sheriff Douglas Barron. Third witness was Henry White. White's testimony brought out the happenings leading up to the shooting.

He testified that he was presen when Dorsey and Spriggs had an argument over a crap game. He said that Dorsey had cursed and called him a fool, but that he had heard no threats.

White was also present when the shooting took place later in the day. His testimony stated that he was standing within a few feet of Dorsey when Spriggs walked up. According to White, after the two had talked for a

Final District Game

Yoemen Blast Belton 39-13; Go To Rosebud Friday Night

The big bruising Cameron Yoemen came through Friday night with their third District 23-AA victory by blasting the Belton Tigers 39-13 before a large Belton Homecoming crowd.

It was the Yoemen's ball game from start to finish. The team marched to 417 net yards gained rushing to only 137 for the Tigers. Jimmy Rettig, a Yoemen Junior halfback, stole the show for the night by marking up 5 of Cameron's 6 touchdowns.

Rettig, with his teammates kept the Tiger defense rocked on its heels all during the game. The magnificent blocking of the Cameron line clicked at the right time and marked the way for the Yoe backfield to race through for long gains and to shatter the Tigers' dreams of repeating as district champions.

The Yoes marked up 17 first downs; Belton had 13. Arnold Warren, Cameron quarterback chucked only four passes during the game, and completed two—one good to End Johnny Green for 31 yards and a touchdown. Belton attempted 19 passes and completed only five.

The game, which was rated as a toss-up before the opening kick-off, showed at the beginning who meant business as the Milam invaders went 59 yards in 9 plays for the first score. Belton was kept under the big Yoemen blanket all during the night as their team was torn to shreads by the mighty Yoemen line.

Rettig went over from the one yard line for the first Yoe tally. Joe Michalka's kick for the extra point was blocked by Bucky Willson, a Tiger backfield man.

The Tigers were given only a short possession of the pigskin before the locals recovered Paul Kelton's fumble on the Tiger 45. W. K. Leonard and Warren were the Milam crew's ground gainers to the 22. Rettig knifed through to the 1 and a first down, and then plunged over for his second score of the evening. Michalka passed to Rettig for the extra point, and Cameron was ahead, 13-0.

The Tigers came back, showing a little life, and with only seconds remaining before the quarter ended, they took over at midfield. Penny Vann, Belton ace quarterback tossed to End Earl Miller on the 33, and the speeding receiver clipped off the remaining yardage for the first Belton score. Vann's kick was

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER WANTS GOVERNMENT JOB OF INVESTIGATING WEATHER WHEN IT DEFIES FORECAST

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm in Marlow hasn't got much chance with his proposal this week, but that's no hindrance to him.

Dear editar:

I have never been interested in a government job, it's not because I object to gettin a government check, me and the airlines are both broad gauged enough not to object to a little government subsidy, but the future of a government job never did appeal to me, the turn-over's too big and the hours are too regular, but I was out here on my farm the other day watchin a little cloud over on the horizon and speculatin on whether it would develop rain by mornin when I stumbled on a copy of a newspaper and tripped and fell and since I hated for all that effort to go to waste I just stayed where I was and opened the paper up and started to read.

I hadn't gotten through more than half the reports on investigations, you know, they're now investigatin practically every phase of American life, from marriage to colleges to churches to kindergartens and maybe they need investigatin, that's beyond my field, when I turned over on the second page and discovered an article saying the government has launched an investigation of the weather.

As I understand it, the weather bureau had predicted a big snow storm which they discovered out in the Gulf of Mexico was gonna stay in the ocean, but contrary to regulations it violated the predictions and headed for the East, swamping Washington and New York.

Naturally, this called for an investigation, and one has now been launched.

What I'm writin you about is this: I would like to have a job as a government weather investigator. I figure that's one government job I could handle, without leavin my farm. I've got as much weather out here as they've got in Washington, it needs investigatin just as much as theirs, its just os unreliable and runs counter to the predictions as often, and I believe I've got as much equipment as anybody for finding out where a snow storm is two weeks after it's melted.

In fact, I'm set up and ready to go. All I lack is gettin on the pay roll.

Yours Faithfully,
J. A.

John Busker, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the church choir which sang the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of Chantilly lace and nylon net, fashioned with a train. Seed pearls adorned the neckline, and her fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and bugle beads.

She observed the bridal tradition of something old, something new. Her flowers were white carnations and stephanotis, and she carried a rosary.

Arrangements of fern and white chrysanthemums were used in the house. Dinner and supper were served to 130 wedding guests, and a dance complimenting the couple was held at night in the parish hall.

Chevrolet Dealers Get First Look At 1954 Trucks

R. G. Grabein and Make McDermott of the Grabein Chevrolet Co. have just returned from Houston where they attended a First showing of the New 1954 Trucks and Pickups to all the dealers in the Houston zone.

The showing of the New Commercial Lines and the business connected with it was sponsored by Chevrolet Motor Division the Dealers and Retail Salesmen in this area and plainly indicated to those present just how much importance Chevrolet is attaching to the soon to be showing of the New Commercial Lines.

"This was first meeting ever to be experienced by us because it was exclusively all new truck models," said Mr. Grabein. The reason was promptly made clear. The New 1954 lines contains so many new features that it will take some time to enumerate all of them."

"Not only will the company have more to offer in the New Commercial Lines for 1954, but it will expand its selling and advertising program."

Mr. Grabein says that he will arrange a Special Showing of the New Line in his Dealership as soon as they are available later this month. This is one of the few times in History of the Chevrolet Organization that it has been arranged to show the new truck apart from the new passanger cars.

The second quarter opened with Cameron taking the kickoff. Fullback Leon Beale, W. K. Leonard, Warren and Rettig shared the running chores and nine plays after the kickoff had another score, with Rettig handling the final play from the one. Michalka's kick was low.

Kelton's 57 yard run set up Belton's final touchdown after the kickoff. A couple of Vann aerials went astray, then pitchin' Penny found Miller in the clear and hit him for 22 yards and the score. Vann booted the extra point and Belton's scoring was finished for the 1953 season.

The Yoemen came racing back and were moving ahead with full force, but James Seals, Tiger halfback, intercepted a Warren toss at midfield. Belton then fumbled and Cameron recovered on their own 48 to continue their move. Six plays later saw Warren toss a beautiful pass to End Johnny Green for 31 yards and the fourth Yoe High touchdown. Right Guard Junior Zotz kicked the extra point and the half-time score saw Cameron leading 26-13.

The third quarter slipped by with both teams settling down and battling it out without either team making a serious threat. The fourth period was ripped right open with Cameron marching again over the Tigers. Their quick, slashing drives picked up and Rettig hit for 17 yards and the tally. The try for extra point failed.

Belton began to roll midway in the final quarter. They moved into Cameron territory when Rettig halted the drive by plucking Vann's intended pass to Earl Miller on the 27. The speedy back raced all the way back for the final touchdown of the game. Zotz added the extra point.

Belton's final touchdown drive fell through when it was halted by Leonard who intercepted a pass in the end zone for a touchback. Cameron took over on its 20 and moved down field. Belton tightend up as the minutes were fading and forced Cameron to punt. Having possession of the ball in midfield, Vann attempted to shoot out one of his deadly passes, but fumbled. The quick Yoemen took over at this point with a recovery and the ball game ended with Cameron in possession of the ball, and out ahead, 39-13.

The District 23-AA teams will go into final play Friday night with the Rosebud Panther-Cameron Yoemen game being the outstanding clash. Georgetown and Taylor will fight it out Friday to determine the district-cellerdwellers.

While Rosebud and Cameron are battling it out, trying to win a title, or a portion of it, Georgetown and Taylor will be battling it out, trying to win, in order not to gain a title. Both teams have three losses.

The Rosebud-Cameron game involves three teams, which includes Rosebud, Cameron and Belton. Should Rosebud defeat the Yoemen, they, Belton and the local squad will be in a district deadlock. If the Milam crew wins, they'll have the district crown to themselves.

Rosebud will be giving it all they have to gain a share of the title for themselves and Belton. The Yoemen have been particing hard all week, and will be in top shape. Not much energy was lost last week when they stomped Belton.

All reserve seat tickets were sold by noon Tuesday, and S. M. Layfield, principal of the high school, said that Cameron will have no more reserve seat tickets for the game. Admission to the game will be with general admission. Those tickets will have to be purchased at the gate Friday night. The Cameron crowd is expected to be large.

This important grid battle will probably draw one of the largest attendances this year. Besides the Panther-Yoemen fans, Belton boosters are expected to be sprinkled among the crowd, in hopes that they will gain a portion of the title.

Twenty-two water samples were submitted to the State Laboratory in Austin for analysis, both private and municipal. The Sanitarian submitted four samples from the Thorndale municipal supples, and all were reported as having "no coliform organisms present."

During the month the Sanitarium also spent some time working with J. B. Doss, V. D. investigator of the Central Office in Austin.

The Unit reported that all nuisance complaints have been promptly investigated and corrections were obtained in a majority of the cases.

HEALTH REPORT

ASTHMA

A woman, age 42 came to this clinic with a severe asthmatic condition. These attacks would strike without warning and apparently anything and everything would bring about the spasmotic choking and gasping for breath. A complete xray and instrumental spinal analysis was made of this patient and the cause was located. xrays revealed pressure on the nerves leading directly to the tiny air sacs in the lungs. The life given force was cut off.

A series of adjustments were started. The progress the first ten days was good, but slow. The attacks were milder and didn't last as long. In 4 weeks this patient reported that her asthmatic attacks have vanished - hasn't had an attack since October 10th. She is happy with her results. Chiropractic will get sick people well. Is your health failing? Why not try Chiropractic? It may help you.

EXHAUSTION

A farmer, age 26, entered the Boyce Chiropractic Clinic - his complaints were many headaches, backaches, low blood pressure, exhaustion to a point where he couldn't work, extreme nervousness. He stated that he had tried everything and as a last resort turned to Chiropractic.

A complete Spinal Examination was made and through our precision xrays the cause of his trouble was located. The patient was told he could be helped. A health service was recommended and corrective adjustments were started.

In a short time this patient reported that his headaches, and backaches, were completely gone and that he could work all day without becoming exhausted. In his own words - "I don't know what would have happened to me if it had not been for Chiropractic care. I recommend it to anyone.

short time, Spriggs pulled out a gun and shot Dorsey several times, later walking away twirling the gun on his finger.

The state rested its case about 4 p.m. Tuesday and court was recessed until Wednesday morning.

Upon resumption of the trial, the defense brought to the stand James Latimore. Latimore testified that he had seen a gun on Dorsey the day he was killed.

As its next witness, the defense called the defendant, Morris Spriggs, to the stand.

Under questioning by his own attorney, Jack Prescott, Spriggs related his own story of the shooting and the events leading up to it.

Spriggs swore under oath that Dorsey had threatened to "beat him up or kill him". He claimed that Dorsey had told him of a man he (Dorsey) had killed before and that he (Spriggs) was afraid that Dorsey would do the same to him without warning.

When he related the story of the actual shooting, Spriggs testified that Dorsey made a quick motion for his side while they were talking. He said that he thought Dorsey was going for a gun, so he pulled out his own and killed Dorsey in self defense.

This was the main charge of the double barreled defense put on by Prescott; that due to the fact that Spriggs had been threatened, he had a right under the law to arm himself and seek out the man who threatened him in an effort to reach a peacable agreement, and that due to the fact that Dorsey had made sudden motion as if he were going for a gun that Spriggs had a right to shoot if he honestly felt that his own life was in danger.

Under the cross-fire of prosecuting attorney J. W. Miller, Spriggs stuck fairly well to his story, although parts of it conflicted directly with testimony given by previous witnesses.

Spriggs was called to the stand at 10 a.m. and at Midget press time, two hours later, he was still there.

The case is expected to be completed sometime Thursday.

Spriggs was charged with the murder of Taso Dorsey on April 19 of this year.

Jurors were Woodrow Good, Lloyd N. Ezzell, W. L. McIntosh, Hunter Duncan; H. D. Tucker, J. M. Brannon; Clint Henry; Jack Dubois; John H. Mitchell; Willie L. Glaser; James M. Wiggs, and John Dohnalik.

Texas TB Hospital Asks Hunters For Deer Hides

That shot you fire at a buck deer during the season may save a man's life.

There are more than two thousand patients in the four state tuberculosis hospitals.

Life for many of those patients becomes dull, flat, stale—unsufferably monotonous. Some of them pull out, against the advice of doctors. They go back home, carrying their infection, cutting down their chances to get well.

But if they had a little more to do—mainly something to do with their hands—they might stay. They might get well, go back home useful and healthy citizens.

And here's how that crack of your high-power rifle pointed at that buck deer can figure in the picture.

The hide off that deer can be the means of furnishing many of these sick people a new interest. If you'll just bundle up the hide and ship it, at no expense to yourself, to the Austin Taxidermist Studio, Austin, it will be tanned and turned over to the occupational therapists at the state hospitals. Ship the hide express collect.

There isn't any doubt about the result. It was proved last year.

Word was sent out by Helen Colburn, Texas Tuberculosis Association director of public information. Twenty-four deer hides were taken to the hospitals was amazing—and touching. Those lonely, homesick people began making things. Almost anybody can make things out of a chunk of buckskin—maybe only a obacco pouch or a golf mitt, maybe something as elaborate as a jacket.

The point is that those people had a chance to work, with their hands as well as their minds, on something that interested them.

Soil Conservation District News

Gordon Baskin, Dusek Brothers and Clayton Barton finished their stock ponds just in time to catch the recent rains. They are the kind that pond a lot of deep water, and will be there for livestock during the dry seasons. Nearly all of the ponds have overflowed around the spillways to some extent; however, little damage from spillways washing has been reported.

After waiting three years for protected outlets, Henry Kuzen finally installed his terraces. About 2 miles were emptied on a 100 foot waterway seeded to King Ranch bluestem. The water was carried to the bottom of the slope with no erosion. William Kuzel also put in nearly two miles of terraces just before the rain.

J. P. Harwell was showing what hubam clover did to his land. You could see the difference to the row in the corn that followed the hubam, and the soil looked better. He says to leave hubam there long enough to get that root down into the plow again.

Even though the summer was dry, Robert Engleke and Steve Polzer got their King Ranch bluestem waterways established from their springs planing. The original planting made seeds in the summer. Now the volunteer seedlings are up and growing. It looks like King Ranch bluestem is the best waterway cover in the blackland.

Most farmers who do not have pastures to take the excessive water from terraces are making plans to seed or sod wide grass strips to carry the water and also serve as pasture.

Scholarship To Be Awarded At Houston Fat Stock Show

For the second year the Marshall Foundation will offer a $5,000.00 scholarship to an outstanding boy or girl exhibitor at the Houston Fat Stock Show, to attend the University of Houston.

The 1954 Houston Fat Stock Show opens February 3 and runs through February 14 for the 22-nd annual exposition.

The scholarship, created by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Marshall of Houston, will be awarded on the basis of leadership, scholastic standing, financial need and contributions to agriculture through private farming, livestock raising, FFA, FHA, or 4-H Club work.

The award enables the winner to 5 years of college, leading to a bachelor of science and master's degree in any course offered by the Agricultural Department of the University of Houston.

Eligibility for the scholarship requires applicants to have entries in one or more of the following classifications at the Houston Fat Stock Show: beef cattle, dairy cattle or sheep.

Applicants must graduate from high school during the 1953-54 school year, either at mid-term or in June, and must be desirous of pursuing a course in Agriculture at the University.

Last year's scholarship winner was Louis Oran Little, a 17-year-old FFA boy from Schulenburg, Texas. He is now studying animal husbandry in the school of agriculture at the University of Houston.

Believing that "the nation's progress depends to a great extent upon the conservation of our land and other natural resources." Mr. and Mrs. Marshall set up the Marshall Foundation Scholarship to be awarded annually. Mr. Marshall is vice president of Quintana Petroleum Corporation.

Applications and rules are being mailed from the Houston Fat Stock Show office to each boy and girl entering beef cattle, dairy cattle or sheep. These applications must be completed and returned, not later than January 15, 1954, to John S. Kukendall, Livestock Manager, Houston Fat Sock Show, J. O. Box 2371, Houston, Texas.

Applications can be obtained through Mr. Kukendall's office.

PARMA RADIO SERVICE. RADIO and TELEVISION SERVICE. ALL MAKES.

Remember When You Had to Shout?

MANY RURAL TELEPHONES used to be connected to a single wire instead of a pair. As a result, you often had to shout to make yourself heard. Now practically every Southwestern Bell rural telephone in Texas is on an all-metallic circuit — and you can depend on clear, distinct transmission. That's one of many ways we are working to improve our service to rural customers — at the same time we are working to extend service to more and more farm homes. This year alone we are spending $4½ million in Texas for more and better rural telephone service. SOUTHWESTERN BELL . . . A TEAM OF 28,000 TEXAS TELEPHONE PEOPLE . . . AT YOUR SERVICE.
